

SAFETY

On every job, the risk of injury or fatality is a real possibility. Few accidents on construction sites, however, result from equipment failure. Most accidents are caused by human error.

Through training and inspection, we believe such errors can be minimized — even eliminated. That's why August Winter & Sons employs a full-time safety manager who works around-the-clock to promote safe work habits and improve worker safety.

No one wants to have people injured on their project. And no one wants to wrestle with the liability factors that often arise from such accidents. Prevention really is the best cure for this kind of problem.

At August Winter & Sons, we never forget ... safety is for life.

Our full-time safety manager, Gary Winter (top right), has over ten years of experience in the mechanical contractor industry. Through on-going OSHA training and schooling, Gary has become highly qualified to manage a professional safety program. Our safety programs include training on first aid/CPR, forklift safety, hazardous chemicals, excavation, fall prevention, and other training as dictated by job site conditions or owner request.
